ONE OF NEW YORK'S FOUR HUNDRED

Loots a Bank of Three-Quarters of a Million and His Wreck on the Great North-Whereabouts Unknown--Statement of Assistant Cashier.

By Associated Press to Thy Journal.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The whereabouts of Cornelious Lansing Alvord, Jr., who looted the First National Bank to the extent of $700,000, is unknown and his handsome home at Mount Vernon is being closely watched by detectives.

When the Aivords went to Saratoga last summer they took all their horses and carriages. It took two cars to transport the outfit. The horses were blooded animals and the vehicles of the handsomest description. Alvord is said to have bet heavily on the races.

W. G. Snow an assistant cashier on the bank who lives in Montelair, N. J. said last night that he had no authority to tell any of the delails of the matter and not out of the capital. If I could explain the methods of the defaulter to you would see that they were very simple. The stealing has been going on for five or six years. The bank examiners should have discovered it and so should we but it was one little thing that we overlooked.

"We trusted Alvord implicitly and had not the least suspicion of him until last while running at a good rate of speed Thursday. On that day while the bank examiner was inspecting the books one of our clerks called attention to a circumstance that made us suspicious of Alvord. It had entirely escaped the notice of the bank examiner for he said the books were all right.

"Nobody knew of this not even the officers of the bank at the time. When the bank was closed Alvord went home as usual. Then a few of us who knew about about the clerks discovery started an investigation of the books. We found that by making false entries he had been stealing. Nobody knew of our investigation and Alvord could not have had the least suspicion of it."

Baking Powder is considerable. Royal is economical, because it possesses more leavening power and goes further.

Royal saves also because it always makes fine, light, sweet food; never wastes good flour; butter and eggs.

More important still is the saving in health. Royal Baking Powder adds antidyspeptic qualities to the food.
